Under a recent decision by the BYU Housing Office, buildings such as this one, connected by covered stairwells, could qualify for coed housing permits with men housed in one wing and women in an adjoining one. Permission was recently given to one off-campus apartment complex to house both men and women in the same structure.

Coed housing redefined

BYU Housing has given approval to a local apartment complex, with the buildings connected by stairwells and roofed walkways, for coeducational housing.

According to Delyle Burton, head of the Housing Office, Park Plaza, 900 East and 900 North, has received approval to rent to men students next year.

Housing rules call for coeducational housing in complexes only where the buildings are distinctly separated or where a barrier exists between men's and women's quarters.

The 44-unit Park Plaza forms a 'U' with three separate tri-story buildings which are linked by roofed walkways on all three tiers.

Burton called the connecting walkways "just a connection of the roof line" and "not necessarily" sections of the buildings.

He would not comment whether the Plaza approval might lead to other apartment complexes requesting coed housing. "We will evaluate each request on its individual merit," he said.

Jerry Bowcut, manager of both Park Plaza and Campus Plaza, said he believed the new approval would lead to more requests for coeducational housing. "I think the students will force them (other complex managers) to it," he said.

Bowcut said the decision to offer apartments to some 180 men students next year was made after a survey was conducted in both Plaza complexes. "There was an overwhelming response to coed living," he reported, although Park Plaza, the smaller of the two complexes, was the only one to be opened to coed housing.

"We prefer to have girls in both places, because it's easier to cater to girls," he added, noting that some girls said they would not return unless it was opened to coed living.

"Apartment owners in Provo are up against availability of housing now," said Bowcut, "and have to cater more to what the people want."

The plaza manager claimed that "BYU has forced us" into the coed housing since separate Desert Towers dormitories are all connected by a roofed walkway.

It was reported that Cedarcrest apartments also plan to apply for coeducational housing and The Elms has received approval for coed housing during the summer.

In a spot survey, response among coeds in Park Plaza was both pro and con.

"I really like it. The management is being real careful about the guys they're picking to live here," said Debi Cloutz, a sophomore in business education from Arizona.

Bowcut also reported that he plans to be "stricter than the school" in regards to screening men applicants, especially concerning dress standards. "We always run a clean ship around here," he added.

"A lot of guys half live over here anyway," said Laura Crazzyk, a senior in nursing from Orem. "It's about time they started paying rent."

However, "girls will have to be more careful with keeping blinds shut and doors locked," felt one freshman coed from New Mexico. "Our family brothers just walk in without knocking this year. I can imagine what it will be like when they live right next to us."

A senior in elementary education from Salt Lake City said "it's nice to have guys close, but not too close."

They're putting a kid up for auction at 3 p.m. today. Interested?

Try the Orem City Animal Pound and watch for one young baby billy goat "with black spots on mostly brown body."

Orem Animal Control Officer Bumice G. Ward found the goat "a couple weeks ago" after it had been spotted wandering around Provo on three different occasions.

"When I caught it, it let out a big scream. It made quite a racket," said Ward. "I think it must have fallen out of somebody's truck."

Ward reported that there are no goat herds in the area though this is the second goat he has found during his ten months at the pound. "I've also picked up some snakes, bats, dogs, raccoons, skunks and porcupines," commented Ward.

The officer predicts that no one will buy the escape-goat because it is a billy. "If it was a nanny, we could place it easily. Some people use nannies for milk for their babies," he said.

If the animal is not purchased, Ward reported, he would have to "put it to sleep."

"That would be a shame," said one prospective buyer. "Here we are, college kids, in a big ecology kick and we won't buy an animal that has been recycling for centuries."

Miss Joy Sansom, a member of the MIA General Board, will wind up the program on the topic "What's a girl like you doing married?" Miss Sansom will expand on her philosophy that an unmarried woman can still be happy and productive and also develop her talents as well as a married woman.

Alvin R. Dyer hospitalized; satisfactory condition today

Elder Alvin R. Dyer, assistant to the Council of the Twelve, is described as being in satisfactory condition after surgery Saturday, according to Norman Bowen, assistant press secretary for the Church.

Dog heaven

"What in the devil are they doing now?"

The annual Faculty Assembly will be held this Thursday at 10 a.m. in the Smith Fieldhouse.

Faculty members are preparing for the "Great Marion in 'Fiddler on the Roof' or Gone With the WORLD?" St. Peter, played by Max Golightly, will open the Peary Gates only to a select few.

Gretchen, BYU's First Dog, has also been rehearsing and will make her theatrical debut in the performance.

Pres. Oaks is also expected to pass the bar.

"We can learn from these women because they have shown success in what they have done," said Jane Hamilton, academics assistant for the Women's Office.

Dyer is recuperating in the LDS Hospital after "vascular surgery," stated hospital officials Saturday.

He is "following a normal, uneventful recovery with no complications," says his doctors.

The 63-year-old Dyer is reported to be mentally alert. He has been in the hospital since April 21.

Recently Dyer was named as the managing director of the Church Historical Department.

Arrington speaks today

LDS Church Historian Leonard J. Arrington will deliver the next address in the Commissioner's Lecture Series May 10 at BYU.

Arrington, who is also director of the Charles Redd Institute of Western Studies, will speak on "The Lessons of History for the Latter-day Saints," beginning at 4:15 p.m. in 184 Jesse Knight Building at BYU. The meeting is open to the public.

The lecture series was instituted this year by Dr. Neal A. Maxwell, LDS Church historian and Education, to give young members of the Church as well as the public opportunities to hear from LDS scholars who are well known in their various disciplines and have high-level secular scholarship.

Dr. Arrington was a professor of economics at Utah State University where he was called to the Church and BYU positions in January. He graduated from University of Idaho and received his Ph.D. in economics from the University of North Carolina, where his dissertation was "Role of the Mormon Church in the Economic Development of the Mountain West."

He has taught at University of North Carolina, North Carolina State College and at USU since 1946, and has been a visiting professor at BYU, University of California at Los Angeles and University of Georgia, Ga.

During World War II he served with the U.S. Army in Africa and

Quang Tri Abandoned

Senior South Vietnamese officers and about 80 American advisers abandoned the provincial capital of Quang Tri yesterday, leaving stranded behind 10,000 government troops and 40 U.S. military advisers to be "killed or captured" by invading Communist troops. Flying to the safety of Hue, 32 miles to the south, officers said that they left "about 40" Americans behind with the remaining Vietnamese marines still fighting at nightfall.

Indicating that the troops and advisers had little hope of escaping death or capture, one U.S. officer said, "there's really not much hope for them to escape."

"Going down Highway 1 toward Hue is going to be a little like the German retreat from Russia in World War II. They're going to get slaughtered all the way down," he said.

New SALT agreement

President Nixon and Soviet Party Leader Leonid Brezhnev have reached an agreement representing a major advance in a strategic arms limitation treaty, press Secretary Ronald Ziegler announced yesterday.

Ziegler said that both leaders have given new instructions to their negotiator at the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks designed to "lead to an agreement which is mutually acceptable to both sides."

Phase two controls eased

The Cost of Living Council announced yesterday the removal of price controls over five million small businesses and wage controls on 19 million of their workers.

The exemption affects businesses and local government units with 60 or fewer employees—with the exception of health and construction agencies.

Sadat warns Israel

Vowing to "smash Israel's arrogance," President Anwar Sadat of Egypt said yesterday that the Soviet Union has promised sufficient backing to enable Egypt to go to war with Israel.

"I am ready to sacrifice a million men for the battle," he said, "and Israel should be prepared to sacrifice a million or more."

Key primaries set for today

By United Press International

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, jolted in his home state of Washington over the weekend, yesterday reassessed his candidacy for the Democratic nomination and held his nomination. Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey and George S. McGovern, and Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace campaigned on the eve of key primaries in Ohio and Indiana.

Despite clearly controlling only three of seven districts, Jackson said in a statement in Ohio, "This is a great boost to my national campaign."

Trying to avoid a similar embarrassment in his home state of Alabama, Wallace appealed to voters to support delegates committed to him in today's primary.

There are four primaries today with popular balloting in Ohio and Indiana, voting for committed delegates in Alabama and uncommitted delegates in the District of Columbia.

Handball Power

Editor:

When I paid my $300 tuition fees to come here to B.Y.U., I expected free use of the facilities. Excuse my ignorance, but I am unable to conceive the reason for requiring 10 hours for the handball courts. Please excuse. Are the reasons as that the University so physically demands that it is a vital necessity for them to have a monopoly on the handball courts? I thought handball was a course offered for the benefit of the students. But how is one able to practice when the courts are reserved for our distinguished faculty?

The new Honor Center is one of the most beautiful buildings on campus. As far as I can tell, the only use it has is for basketball games or concerts. Why can't handball courts be built in the basement so either the faculty or student body have access to more facilities?

More of Vanity Fair?

Editor:

It seems that there is a select number of students on this campus that receive privileges that the average student has no access to. This elite group has not only the best teachers, but also the finest classes. Please have a special section in the library granted to them and allow them to register for classes before the rest of the student body.

I am certain that most of the honor students are on scholarships. This means that the average student must pay for his education. If the average student and the honor students should be placed on the same level, with no special advantages, this would help lessen the number of students per class and help the school economically.

Why must we settle for second best and allow the honor students to have top priority at this University?

Killing war

Editor:

In a letter to the Editor (April 26), a fellow student gave forth his opposition to war, and backed it with a few quotes from Church leaders. I too am against war—it killed my uncle and brought leaders to their feet, but I hold sacred the right to defend my family and nation. I also feel that the South Vietnamese have the same right.

As far as Christian doctrine goes, it is true that "war was the last recourse of Satan." Let us also remember that when Satan rebelled and started the war in Heaven, Jesus Christ and Adam didn't sit on their thrones, raise two fingers in the air, and cry "Hooray!" They defeated Satan with our help and cast him out of Heaven.

How should we know?

Editor:

What is this deal about continually changing the parking lot classifications and keeping it a secret? Should I be charged $5 to find out, especially after 6 p.m., between two Church functions, in a half-empty lot? What a sadistic way for Security to pass the time of day! Why not just add five dollars to my tuition and give me credit for "Traffic and Parking Regulations 101"?

"Virtue is harder to be got than knowledge of the world; and, if lost in a young man, is seldom recovered."

—Locke

"WELL, I SAY TV VIOLENCE DOESN'T AFFECT KIDS. TURN IT OFF AND I'LL BREAK YOUR ARM."

Violence

Aggression and irresponsibility

By MARK SKOUSEN

Quite frankly, television is only a few years behind the movie industry in its predilection for sex and violence.

This is evidenced by the recent showing of Truman Capote's "The Glass House" on the CBS Friday Night Movie. The film depicts prison life involving homosexual advances and rape, bribery of prison officials, knifings, suicide, and murder. The story was filmed at the Utah State Prison.

A month ago NBC was to air the special, "Thou Shall Not Kill," but was restrained by a court injunction. The documentary is about the confessed murder of six people in Salt Lake City in December 1966. It dwells on the sanguinary facets of murder—why they were killed and how they were killed by the two confessed murderers—all in living color on NBC.

TV GUIDE reported the following "violent stimuli" in a single week on television: 144 murders, 143 attempted murders, 52 justifiable killings, 14 cases of drugging, 12 jail breaks, 36 robberies, 6 thefts, 13 kidnappings, 6 burglaries, 7 cases of torture, 6 extortions, 5 blackmails, 11 planned murders, 4 attempted lynchings, 1 massacre scene with hundreds killed . . . the list seems endless.

In defense of the seemingly high and obviously unrealistic number of cases of violence, TV GUIDE took a rather permissive attitude. It used quotes such as: "Most aggressive patterns of behavior are learned without any intent to harm," and "What's 'aggression' to you isn't 'aggression' to me." In reply to a letter to the editor arguing for less TV violence in hope of a better world, TV GUIDE replied, "A better world, yes, but not very good television shows without dramatic conflict."

ON THE OTHER HAND, according to the most recent report by the U.S. surgeon general, there is a causal relationship between the exposure to television of some children and subsequent aggressive and violent behavior.

And according to University of Utah psychologist Victor B. Cline, motion pictures and especially television have considerable influence over people's lives. He concludes: "By making violence appear glamorous and exciting, and illicit sex normal and desirable, these media are setting the stage for a society based on aggression and irresponsibility."

The extent of dramatic conflict on TV must be weighed against the strong possibility of "desensitizing" or making youth passive in the presence of violence. The Federal Communications Commission has imposed censorship of harsh and vulgar language. But apparently, the subject matter of television programs can only be controlled by the industry itself. Hopefully, future programs will not simply indulge in repeated exposure to violence and overt sex.

Track results

Three new records highlighted the intramural track and field tournament held last Wednesday and Thursday at the stadium.

Ken Ilunt from Young Men set a new standard in the discus with a toss of 160'4". Wade Wilson, representing the 41st ward, cleared the high jump bar at 6'6".

Arsenal's three-man relay team consisting of Stan Peckin, Bob Bush, S. Lingland and Mike Foote set a new record with a 3:38.9 clocking.

Other winners in Thursday's track events included Kirt Williamson, 70th ward, who long jumped 21 feet. Bruce Gerts of the 79th ward raced the 100 yard dash in 10.3. Jay Rice, DL-1, won the 4500 in 14:58.5. Ron Hill of the 22nd ward captured the 220 yard dash in 22.7.

In the 880 yard run, Kent Stringham of the 13th ward led the field with a 2:06.2 time. Bob Bush, Arsenal, topped the 440 with a time of 52.4. The 880 relay team from U-6 won that event in 1:39. The team included Ron Brews, Vern Nelson, Ralph Graven and Tim Carroll. The two-mile run winner was David Owen, Arsenal.

Netmen falter in tourney

BYU's netters had a busy weekend as the Cats traveled to Salt Lake for the finals of the Icebreaker Tournament and Coach Wayne Pearce journeyed to the Ojai Valley Tournament in Southern California to look at future prospects.

The BYU netmen, despite placing two in the singles semifinals and one team in the doubles finals, came away from the Salt Lake tourney empty-handed.

After Cougar number-two man Felix Ponte surprised teammate Marty Henneman in the singles semi, Ponte succeeded to Utah's Bill Bennison in the final, losing in straight sets.

In doubles, the experimental pair of Chris DeGraff-John Bennett (DeGraff's usual partner is Jim Robbins) fell to the Utes' Bob Schmitz-Benji in the final round. The Redskin duo earlier had mastered the Cats' Robbins-Henneman team.

Other BYU singles competitors stumbled in earlier rounds. Blue fourth man Robbins lost in three sets to Utah number five man Andy Webb. Webb had conquered BYU Coach Pearce in the first round. DeGraff fell to Schoovars and Bennett to Kent Woodard of the Utes in other action.

THE Cougar squad will now ready itself for this weekend's battle with the Utes in Salt Lake. Redskin ace C.D. Robbins did not participate in the Icebreaker, feeling, in Peacock's words, "He had nothing to gain by entering."

Pearce will have to decide this week on a number six singles man to replace the departed Ron Smith. Sophomore George Laird and freshman Scott Jackson seem to share the inside track there.

Baseball team travels today

BYU's baseballers move to Ogden today for a doubleheader game with Weber State. The Cougars, with a 7-2 WAC record, will use the contest to tune up for three games against Utah in Salt Lake City over the weekend.
